Providence's New Diagnostic Imaging Center

Providence Health System

Why is there a need for a Providence Diagnostics Imaging Center?

Providence's employed primary care clinicians provide care for more than 16,000 patients who use to have access to diagnostic imaging services on the Providence campus.

Providence medical office buildings are home to more than 70 other independent medical providers (representing primary care clinicians and subspecialists) who serve a significant number of district residents that are in need of imaging center services.

Furthermore, our Carroll Manor long-term nursing facility has more than 250 residents who will greatly benefit from this diagnostic center.

Why is there a need for a Providence Diagnostics Imaging Center?

Our market research has also concluded that the district currently lacks the availability of free standing imaging centers, with most services offered through an acute care rate structure.

Historically, free standing imaging centers play host to a lower cost alternative for Medicare and Medicaid patients who aren't dependent on hospital based facility fees, providing a more affordable option for those publicly insured patients.

Our new facility will serve as the only imaging center in Ward 5, and one of the few that can offer Medicare and Medicaid patients a non-hospital based charge.
